PAINTS AND COATINGS SKILL COUNCIL

Newsletter: April - June 2018

Paint India

The biennial, mega Paint India exhibition for paints, coatings and all the allied products got off to a colourful start on 8th March 2018 at Bombay Exhibition Centre at Goregaon, Mumbai. As is usual, this year too, the show got bigger with more than 500 exhibitors and close to 20,000 visitors. Paints and Coatings Skill Council made its debut in Paintindia with an impressive stall. PCSC stall generated a lot of enquiries and in the short burst of 3 days managed to improve the awareness in the industry about this nascent sector skill council.

FROM THE CEO'S DESK

Some of the eligible employers have already registered under the scheme and submitted details of their employees proposed for certification. We would like more to come on board and take advantage of this unique opportunity, Training books for most of the application QPs have been developed and are in the process of being printed. Interested members can get in touch with us to purchase these books for use in house training.

PCSC has taken a lead role in designing and arranging the current edition of the skill competition with help from some of the bigger paint companies. Photographs of the state level competitions that have taken place are carried in this issue. PCSC invites volunteers from the industry to come forward to participate as judges in the regional and national level competitions. In the Paint India event held in March, PCSC announced the launch of its Associate membership programme. Some companies have already joined as members and the drive is currently underway to enrol many more members. If your organisation has not done so yet I would request you to join now. You will be participating on the skill training efforts of the council besides being eligible for the various benefits of membership.

As I write this, the monsoon has set in with more than expected vigour. This augurs well for the general economy as well as the paint industry, for better farm output would undoubtedly translate into increased demand for the paint industry. The monsoon is also a good time for skill training in our industry. Architectural painting activity slows down during these months before it takes off again before the festival season. Taking advantage of this pre-season lull, PCSC has planned to start RPL programmes and short-term training under state skill development initiatives. The response we are receiving from states has been very positive and the industry too has pitched in with promise of good support.

To popularise skill certification within the industry and increase the reach of the RPL scheme, the government has announced a special scheme known as RPL 4. Under this scheme, the best in class employers in every sector will be able to extend NSQF certification to their eligible employees with their in-house senior staff acting as assessors. The board of PCSC has finalised the criteria for determining best in class employers in our sector and paint companies have been informed about it.

Training Program

MOBILE TRAINING

Berger Paints conducted mobile training through its training wing – iTrain. This novel concept is a van transforming into a training centre. This was in Maheshtala in 24 Parganas District in the neighbourhood of Southwest Kolkatta. The mobile training centre attracted a good response and the painters who attended the programme also participated in a Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) assessment.
